ILPS Statement on Legal Compliance and Sanctions

The International Lecithin and Phospholipid Society (ILPS) is a non-profit scientific association registered in Cologne, Germany. In accordance with its Statutes, the ILPS operates exclusively for scientific, educational, and non-commercial purposes, and acts with full neutrality and impartiality.

The ILPS unites professionals from science, technology, and industry to promote research, knowledge exchange, and standardization in the field of lecithins and phospholipids.

The Society does not conduct or facilitate any commercial or financial transactions, nor does membership imply or establish any form of business relationship between members or with the Society itself.

As a German-registered non-profit organisation, ILPS Board and ILPS Executive Director strictly comply with all applicable European Union and German laws, including:

- EU sanction regulations and restrictive measures;
- EU and German competition and anti-trust laws; and
- the principles of impartiality and confidentiality as defined in §17 of the ILPS Statutes.

In line with its Anti-Trust Statement, ILPS meetings and communications must not include or permit the exchange of commercially sensitive or confidential business information such as pricing, supply terms, or marketing strategies.

The ILPS Board acts on a voluntary and non-remunerated basis and bears no responsibility or liability for the independent business activities or legal compliance of individual members or their affiliated organisations.

Membership in ILPS does not imply any endorsement, approval, or facilitation of business conduct by the Society.

Should any membership or activity conflict with applicable EU sanction or competition law, the ILPS Board reserves the right to take appropriate measures, including suspension or termination of membership, in accordance with the Statutes.

The ILPS remains committed to maintaining a legally compliant, transparent, and neutral scientific platform, open to all professionals acting within the bounds of international law and ethical conduct.
